COLVIN

WINES

De Beyers Vineyard

Now is a good time to stock up on some wines to chase away winter and welcome spring.

The news of this year's vintage (2008) is good and bad. We managed to harvest the Semillon and Chardonnay in time before the big rains came. Unfortunately our Shiraz and Sangiovese were washed out so there will be no 2008 red wines. Trevor Drayton our great friend and Sangiovese wine maker lost his life in the tragic accident at the beginning of the year. He travelled with Robyn and I overseas and was our son Alistair's godfather. We miss him terribly

The mixed case consists of:

- o 3 bottles 2005 Semillon
- o 3 bottles 2005 Sangiovese
- o 3 bottles Ragamuffin
- o 3 bottles San Rose

2005 Semillon

The 2002 and 2004 Semillon were listed in the "Best of the Best Semillons" by James Halliday in his 2005 and 2006 Wine Companions. Andrew Spinazie ("Spinner") makes this outstanding Semillon with grapes picked from 40-year-old non-irrigated vines at the base of the Brokenback range. The wine is crisp and light in colour with a nice balanced acid and floral nose. It develops well in the bottle to become a golden toasty Semillon for which the Hunter Valley is famous. The 2001 vintage is a great example of the latter.

2006 Semillon

Following on in the great tradition of the "best of the best" is the 2006 Semillon on its debut. De Beyers Vineyard is one of the great Hunter Valley vineyards with an impeccable history and wine pedigree which is obvious in this wine.

2001 Semillon

If you have not tasted one of the 'best of the best' older Semillons from Colvin Wines or you have finished your supply, John Colvin is selling two cases of 6 bottles from his own cellar. The rest the Colvin family will drink!! This is a one off opportunity on a first in best dressed basis – with preference to wine club members.

2005 Shiraz

We have only produced very limited cases of this super premium Shiraz. Normally these grapes have gone into the top of the Tyrells range which is understandable given many of the grapes come from vines 40 years old producing small quantities of the finest grapes. The 2003 Shiraz sold out soon after release. The vines grown in the rich clay soils of Pokolbin make this a very special Shiraz that will benefit from cellaring for drinking in 2012 and beyond.

2000 Sangiovese

This wine is now drinking extremely well. The smooth tannins from bottle age and the exquisite Sangiovese flavours are showing through. This wine has been selected to accompany the degustation menu at Bilson's restaurant which is indicative of the reputation it has now achieved. The feedback from those who have cellared and drunk this wine has been most gratifying.

2005 Sangiovese

The result of our Sangiovese vines that are now over 10 years old. The 2005 Sangiovese is drinking very well now and will benefit from continued bottle age as is evident in the 2000 Sangiovese.

Ragamuffin

The literal translation of Ragamuffin is dirty little child/naughty little child which seemed to be a very appropriate name to give this wine in view of the two new dirty little wine makers in the Colvin family, Emily and Alistair (the picture on the label is Emily). This is a wine designed for easy drinking at an early age. It is a careful blending of Sangiovese, Merlot and Shiraz, which is keenly priced for the quality and is a wonderful accompaniment to everyday food.

2005 San Rosé

It is a dry, fruity light wine that is drinking wonderfully now. Served chilled and enjoy with friends and family anytime. If you like Rose you will like this easy drinking variety.
